Disc Brakes

If you live in Seattle or have spent time riding around the Seattle area, you're familiar with Phinney Ridge. It's a neighborhood, but it's also just what it says it is....a ridge. If you live in Ballard, Greenwood, Broadview, or other parts of North Seattle, chances are that you get to ride up it each day on your way to work. Then you get to ride down the other side. As we here in the northwest are aware, it does rain a bit out this way. The combination of hills, city riding and wet conditions call for a different bike...at least for some.

Many of our customers wished we would make a disc brake version of the Rodriguez Adventure for their daily commute, or for grinding in the gravel. They wanted a nice, light bike, but didn't want to wear their rims out as quickly. Although they have their ups and downs, disc brakes are great for wet, sloppy, gritty, hilly rides through Seattle streets. Riding in wet conditions with a lot of sand, gravel and grit on the roads or trails can result in premature rim wear for the diehard commuter.

Your wait is over! Meet the Phinney Ridge from Rodriguez Bicycles

This bike is perfect for sport riding or daily commuting. A bit heavier than the Adventure, but the disc brakes offer the commuter longer lasting rims and wider tire options. The frame and fork will accommodate up to 40mm wide tires with fenders.

Gravel Grinding

'Weather' you've been wanting a sport bike for commuting in Seattle's rain, a Gravel Grinder, or just want a great road bike with disc brakes, the Phinney Ridge is your bike. In addition to wider tire and fender options, the Phinney Ridge offers an American made frame, fittings for a rear rack, our hidden fender mounts, and a triple crank set (in the Shimano models). You'll also get our exclusive Rodriguez bottle opener and 3 water bottle mounts.

Quick facts:

Run up to 40mm wide tires with fenders. The Phinney Ridge is American made from True Temper or Reynolds butted tubing. This provides the classic light-weight 'steel feel' that Rodriguez road bikes are famous for. We offer the Phinney Ridge with a selection of SRAM or Shimano equipment. Every Phinney Ridge comes with a pair of handbuilt wheels with a 3-year warranty. It's a comfortable, versatile bike that is perfect for a rainy day commute and our fit is guaranteed.
